The Bakersfield Californian
Saturday, August 5, 1916

WOMAN IMPLICATED IN STABBING IS ARRAIGNED

Mrs. Nora Lacey Is Pathetic Figure as She Stands Before Judge.

Mrs. Nora Lacey, who was arrested last Monday afternoon after Mrs. Lillian Harrison had been stabbed several times in the abdomen and chest, puncturing the left lung and causing injuries which may prove fatal, was arraigned this morning before Justice of the Peace Flournoy on a charge of battery. She entered a plea of not guilty and her case will be set for trial Monday.

Mrs. Lacey is alleged to have participated in a drunken fight which resulted in Edgar Harrison and his wife being badly cut. The Lacey woman and her husband were both taken into custody, and the latter was charged with assault with a deadly weapon. If the woman should die, and her condition now is considered precarious, they will be held for murder.

Harrison, who was released from the hospital ward of the county jail Thursday after being under a physician's care for several days, is now at the bedside of his wife, who is lying in a critical condition at the county hospital. The couple's three tiny children are being cared for at the county detention home.

In the justice court this morning, Mrs. Lacey presented a most pitiful sight. She is a frail little woman, with stooped shoulders and a sad, sweet face. Her hair is slightly streaked with gray, and there is an expression about her eyes which seems to suggest troublesome days of the past. She looked unusually pale this morning, and it was evident that the days and nights of confinement behind the prison bars are having their effect upon her.

She entered the courtroom accompanied only by a deputy sheriff, and dropped wearily into a chair. The proceedings frightened her, and there were times when she found it difficult to speak. She looked questioningly from one person to another, and seemed at a loss to understand why she was being held a prisoner.