SOCIALISTS SPLIT ON DEFENSE MEANS

ONE WING DEPLORES TOO MUCH PACIFISM

FOR UNIVERSAL TRAINING

Split Will Probably Be Discussed by Local Party—Wing Headed by Russell Says "We Are Pacifists, But Not At Any Cost"

The split which has appeared in the ranks of the state Socialist party organization is spread to the local organization. The New York Socialists have split over universal military training, one wing of the party advocating such training. The other wing of the party still stands pledged to extreme pacifism. The militant branch held a meeting in the Hotel Latham in New York Friday afternoon and adopted resolutions advocating universal military training on the ground that "to refuse to resist international crime is to be unworthy the name of a Socialist."

Among the signers of this resolution are Charles Edward Russell, one time candidate for governor on the Socialist ticket, who has spoken several times in this city. Other signers were Charlotte Perkins Gilman, LeRoy Scott, Upton Sinclair, William L. Stoddard, J. C. Phelps Stokes, William English Walling, Robert W. Bruce, William J. Clegg, Walter E. Krusell and Charles Kimball Krusell. The national executive committee of the Socialist party issued a statement a few days ago at which the signers of the resolution protested, declaring that it was so pacific as to be pro-German. The believers in universal service declared that while as Socialists they were opposed to war, that they did believe that the opposition of the Socialist party to national defense and universal training would be accepted in the name of democracy and contrary to the hitherto accepted views of the Socialist party.

"We are pacifists," it continues, "but not at any cost and believe that the sacrifice of integrity and of general public and private self-interest is too high a price to pay for peace."

"Universal military training affords the only safe and democratic basis for national defense. A nation should never elect its representatives to save itself some present suffering, nor back behind bulwarks raised and defended by others."

proper place to enroll in the Red Cross.

Bradley, by an order filed in the county clerk's office. The action is the outcome of the powder house explosion of May 8, 1915, when thousands of dollars' damage was done in the city, including the destruction of many windows. It was brought to recover about $1,600 insurance on plate glass windows. Mr. Bradley, attorney for the plaintiff, and Thomas Burns represents the defendant.

Graystone Farms, Inc., will begin business with a capital of $50,000, and the duration of the company is to be 50 years, according to the certificate of incorporation filed today with the county clerk. The stock is to consist of $25,000 preferred, bearing cumulative dividends of seven percent, and the remaining $20,000 is common stock. The four stockholders are the directors of the company, which is to deal in farm products, stock-raising and real estate.

NO WOMEN IN THE U. S. NAVY

Washington Notices Enlistment Office They Will Not Be Accepted.

Chief Machinist's Mate Lawrence J. Murphy is all at sea over the enlistment of women for the United States navy. Press dispatches of a few days ago stated that women would be enlisted in the navy as yeomen to do stenographic and clerical work. According to Mrs. Murphy applied for enlistment under these conditions. Lieut. D. P. Wickerham, in charge of the recruiting district, wrote in answer to the application that Mrs. Murphy's application would be the first to be considered when the order, which was expected at any time, would be received.

This afternoon's dispatches contained the information that no women would be accepted in the navy. The dispatch which comes from Bridgeport, Conn., follows: Bridgeport, Conn., March 24.—The enlistment of Miss Marion R. Phelan in the naval reserve, and of six other women who followed her example, have been rejected by the navy department, which has notified the enlistment office here that no women will be received into the naval reserve in any capacity.

It is played only on special occasions. The chimes were in charge of the organ operators, Hallam Leonard and Howard Chapman.

LOOK FOR FAILING HEIRS

Whereabouts of Elita Failing Stillwell or Caroline Stillwell Wanted.

Charles A. Tausig, a New York attorney, is endeavoring to secure trace of the whereabouts of Elita Failing Stillwell, or her daughter, Caroline Stillwell, who were former residents of Watertown. Spencer Failing of 731 Cooper street has received a letter from Mr. Tausig, asking for information, but Mr. Failing is no relative as far as he knows. Elita Failing is a former wife of Harvey Failing, who having secured a divorce from him in 1882, her present name is not known, as it is unknown whether or not she has remarried. Caroline Stillwell would be about 36 years old at the present time. There is a small sum of money from the estate of Harvey Failing to which his daughter or her heirs is entitled, if they can be found. Older residents of the city say that Harvey Failing conducted a hotel on the corner of Main and Leary streets about 50 years ago. Anyone who knows the whereabouts of the family can communicate with Mr. Tausig, St. Paul building, 230 Broadway, New York city.

ITALIAN LOSES HIS $800 IN CO. C CROWD

HIS EARNINGS OF SEVERAL YEARS ARE GONE

POLICE LOOK FOR PICKPOCKETS

Belissimo Had Saved Up Money By Hard Work and Expected to Buy a Little Farm in Italy.

Arcangelo Belissimo, 34, an Italian track walker, employed by the New York Central, was relieved of $800 in cash by a pickpocket while strutting through the large crowd at the New York Central station just prior to the departure of Company C last night. Patrolmen Archie Turvey and other members of the local police force worked hard during Friday night and today in an effort to apprehend the thief.

Friends of Belissimo today insist that he was the victim of a thief, although some express the belief that he may have lost his money. Belissimo's friends say that he told them that he mixed in the crowd at the station last night, but while standing in one place, he felt his hip pocket empty. He is quoted as saying that the money was in his hip pocket and the pocket was buttoned.

After feeling several times and finding his money was safe, Belissimo took his hand from his hip and started struggling through the crowd. No sooner had he left the crowd than he found that his money had been stolen. The money, which consisted of $820 bills and the rest in gold, is the accumulation of several years' savings. Belissimo carried the money with him as he had intended to go to his farm in Italy in a few days. The money was to go toward the purchase of a farm in Italy and Belissimo had intended to return to Italy after the war and take charge of the farm. This is said to have been the extent of his fortune.

DISLOYAL TEACHERS ARE DISGRACE TO PROFESSION

CHARLES R. SKINNER SAYS THEY SHOULD BE DEPRIVED OF THEIR SALARIES FORTHWITH

Charles R. Skinner, former superintendent of public instruction, says that the teachers who refuse to sign the loyalty pledge should be discharged forthwith.

"The teachers of New York city, who refuse to sign the pledge of loyalty to the United States, circulated through the schools by order of the board of education, are a disgrace to the profession, their city, their state, and their country," Mr. Skinner said. "They should be immediately separated from the salaries, and should discontinue their appeals to the legislature for pensions and increase of salaries."

"And if it is true, as Senator Lockwood intimates, that in a class in which his niece is being taught, the suggestion that the Stars and Stripes be hung in the classroom was immediately met by cries of (Throw the rag out into the street), it is high time this insult to the flag be investigated and the guilty punished."

"Let the board of education and the legislature move and move quickly."

WARNING!

Before you buy your next range or heater, here's something for you to think about.

When a mail order house advertises a "Splendid range for $25.00" you are getting $35.00 worth—no more. Your own local dealer could probably give you the same article for about the same money—and more than that, they would be ready at all times to look after you if anything went wrong, and to stand back of the stove. Some mail order houses say we are looking after the business ourselves—which is what every live merchant is doing—but at the same time remember this from your own standpoint, what we have said is absolutely true, and if you are alive to your own interests, you will at least look into the matter at home before you buy your next range or heater.

BLAME DOWNFALL OF BOYS TO MOVIES

PARENTS SAY CRIME HAS RESULTED

PATTERNED SCREEN HEROES

Fathers of Boys Who Attempted to Burglarize Kellogg's Candy Store Say They Would Close Every Picture House in the City.

The fathers of four young boys, who last night attempted to burglarize the wholesale confectionery store of Charles A. Kellogg in King street, attribute the cause of their sons' acts to moving picture shows. The parents did not hesitate to condemn the movies as a bad influence for boys, when they appeared in the police office today in behalf of their sons. The boys range from ten to 14 years of age.

"I think that every moving picture show in the city should be closed to boys," said one father. "They go to the movies and there they see on the screen all sorts of thefts committed and are impressed with these feats to such an extent that they try it themselves. To prove that I am right, I will ask the police, or anyone, if ten or 15 years ago, they ever heard of boys committing the burglaries they have in the past few years. At that time movies were not in existence and when a burglar was caught, he was always proved to be a grown person."

Two of the boys admitted that they had planned to burglarize the Kellogg store for the past two weeks. At 4 Friday afternoon, they say they climbed a stairway that lies between the rear of the Kellogg wholesale confectionery store and the side of Philip Beich's blacksmith shop. A window opening into the Kellogg store is located near the top of these stairs. In bright daylight and when employees of the Kellogg store were working inside, the boys carefully removed the putty from the window. The employees' view of the window was cut off by goods that had been piled a short distance away, and this allowed the boys to work without detection.

After removing the putty, the boys left, but returned with two other boys and the fourth one kept a sharp lookout at the corner of the block on King street.

In attempting to remove it quietly, the boys accidentally broke the glass and the crash was heard by residents of the Pures block, who notified Lieutenant John Gilligan, and he soon arrested two of the boys, one on Court street, and another near the armory. The other two boys were taken into custody this morning.

In making the escape, the two boys who were removing the glass jumped from a platform at the top of stairs, a distance of 15 feet, to the ground in a narrow alleyway below, and made their escape. The fact that the boys were not seriously injured is considered almost a miracle, owing to the location of an old grindstone and other things that lay in the narrow alleyway below.

The four boys were taken before Judge McConnell this afternoon, at which time their cases were adjourned until Monday at 2 p. m. The youngest of the quartet was allowed to go to his home until that time while the other three will be held at the bureau of charities.
