HOME TELEPHONE MEETS WITH REBUFF

Committee of Supervisors Refuses to Consider Its Application for a Local Franchise.

The petition of the Home Telephone Company for an immediate hearing on the subject of its application for a franchise was denied yesterday by the Joint Finance and Public Utilities Committee, and unless a resolution can be passed through the Board of Supervisors calling upon the committee for a report the proposition is dead, so far as the present Board is concerned. The franchise will expire before the expiration of the terms of the outgoing Supervisors is made to make the attempt to pass such a resolution likely to bear fruit.

The motion which put the Home Telephone Company for the present out of the running was made by Supervisor Braxton, who said that, inasmuch as Chairman Braunhart was of the opinion that the present Board, if it could consider the bids upon the franchise, would find the incoming Board of Supervisors no less favorable to bidder-the committee had better not report the application back to the Board of Supervisors unless compelled to do so.

Dr. D'Ancona was the only one to record a negative vote, but he explained his action by saying that the Board of Supervisors was a continuous body, notwithstanding any changes that might be made in the personnel, and that it was the duty of the committee, in his opinion, to take some action, affirmative or negative, in view of the fact that the Home Company had presented its application for a franchise as long ago as last June.

Judge J. T. North was present to present the company's side of the case, and he reiterated the statement that it would pledge itself under a $250,000 bond to expend $4,000,000 within the years of the granting of their privilege.

BRAUNHART'S OPPOSITION.

Chairman Braunhart, who yesterday made his first public appearance since his recent illness, listened with considerable impatience to the arguments of Judge North. He said that the Board could not, even under the Broughton act of 1901, which would make it mandatory upon the Supervising Supervisors to grant the franchise to the highest responsible bidder, if it were once offered for sale. Any Supervisor attempting, by his vote, to favor such action, he said, would be liable under the law for a misdemeanor.

Braunhart was sure that the framers of the charter had intended that the city should gradually acquire the ownership of public utilities.

"Moreover, the new Board of Supervisors was elected upon a municipal ownership platform," he added, and he proceeded to harangue the members of the Home Telephone Company without gloves and to question the good faith of its proposal to expend $4,000,000 in the city.

The investigation of this applicant is worthy of a better cause," declared Braunhart, "than the best plea for its application is in my the box. I think the city should own every public utility." He charged the Home Company with presenting its application by stockholders who had received stock at a discount.

Supervisor d'Ancona said that he was in favor of municipal ownership, but he considered it absurd to compel telephone a remote contingency and thought that the practical effect of delaying action might be to foster a monopoly.

The committee also tabled several other applications for telephone franchises which it had received.

FAITHLESS LOVER TAKES GIRL'S JEWELS AND COIN.

Emma L. Frost, a pretty little young woman, yesterday told a sorrowful tale to Chief of Police Dinan and Detective Seely, but the only comfort she received was the assurance that everything would be done for her unless she would prosecute her for theft and would also deposit the money necessary to bring him here from Milwaukee. She refused to do this, however, for womanlike, she loves him in spite of his weakness, and she could not deposit the money because she had taken every cent he owned to rebuy her or her jewelry as well.

Miss Frost met Walter McCabe introduced her to leave Milwaukee with him and to remain with him for a year around the country and arrived here last night. She says that he has been very kind to her, but that he has now developed another very soon. On Wednesday last he told her that he was going back East. He then asked her if they had any money. In addition since her three diamond rings, valued at $500. She answered in the negative and yesterday before Judge Fritz charging him with grand larceny. She thinks that he found that it would result in him being taken in charge, and finally declared that such was not her object. "Only," she said, "I want him to be punished. I only want him to come back and love me, my baby and me."

Seely left the Hall of Justice in charge of a policeman, and the documents were sent to Milwaukee. McCabe is now living at 907 York street, but left there last night for some other address.

ROBBED IN A DOORWAY.

H. Lesley of 317 Franklin street, who is doorkeeper at the Orpheum, went to the detective department two negro women early yesterday morning, and said that he took stock of himself and found that they had relieved him of $ and had taken every cent he had on his person, as well.

Lesley left the Orpheum at 11:30 p. m. and was walking along Eddy street when he was accosted by the two negresses, who asked him to accompany them to their home. He refused, and they then asked him to give them money for a drink. He refused to do this, and they then dragged him into a doorway and relieved him of his money.

CHILD PUTS PEA IN EAR.

Johnny Cropper, a three-year-old child, living at 622 Ivy avenue, jammed a pea into his right ear yesterday, and the efforts of the parent to get it out by the use of a knitting needle and the ear-drum. The child was taken to the Receiving Hospital, where Dr. Tillman made an effort to remove the pea, but was unable to do so without operating, and which the parent refused to allow. The pea is now swollen to such an extent that it is impossible to have the pea removed, and even the hearing is shorter of that ear probably will be gone.

ARRESTED FOR OLD CRIME.

Ernest Thode, who was arrested in the Parlo & Work pawn and pawnbroking establishment, was recognized by John H. Buttles, a boarder of 743 Haight street, as a former employe of the firm who had stolen $145 from him on December 14, 1903, and he was arrested yesterday by Detective Egan and taken to get the money in his locker, where it had been hidden. Thode admitted to Egan that he took it from the place after business hours.

WILL REAPPRAISE HIGH SCHOOL SITE

Original Valuation of the Bell Property Is Called Excessive by the Real Estate Experts.

The location of the new Lowell High School was one of the subjects considered by the Public Utilities and Finance Committees in their joint session yesterday, and reappraisement of the property known as the Bell site, at Octavia, Hayes and Buchanan streets, was ordered in the hope that a price 75% feet square may be secured for a sum in the neighborhood of $35,000. The Bell property proper measures 275 feet on Octavia street, 275 feet on Hayes street and 275 feet on Buchanan street, and is too small to meet the requirements of the School Board. The original offer was $175,000, the appraisement being but $153,500.

Considerable discussion was caused by the consideration of the Alaska square site for this school, Dr. d'Ancona being the only one who favored the location. He said it might cheer the boys after school to look out from the place indicated by the board of Commissioners. Adolph Sutro also voted the bonds for a school near the corner of Larkin and Pine streets. Dr. d'Ancona thought that there might be litigation over that selection also.

The City Attorney was instructed, in a resolution passed by the committee, to condemn three lots adjoining the Spring Valley School on Baker, Larkin and Hyde streets, if the holders would not sell for the appraised valuation.

LETTER NOT FROM MOODY'S PEN

There is declared to be no foundation in fact for the telegram from Washington stating that Attorney-General Moody had written a letter to United States Attorney Devlin criticising Judge J. J. de Haven. According to the story, the criticism was of Judge de Haven's charges to the jurors in the cases of Creen, Unger and George Wright, custom-house employes accused of embezzling Government coin.

The story that Judge de Haven's charge in the trial had been made the subject of adverse criticism by the Attorney-General and Moody on account of his legal views until it was found that there was no basis for such a fact. Judge de Haven and Mr. Devlin refuse to discuss the matter, and Mr. Moody is as far as is definitely that he has received no such letter.

The rumor may have had its foundation in a story going around to the effect that officials of the Post Office Department had received a letter from the Solicitor-General of the Treasury criticising Judge de Haven, and turned it over to Attorney-General Moody for action either affirm or deny that he had received such a letter. Mr. Straton was out of town yesterday.

RESTAURANT KEEPERS FOUND VIOLATING LAW.

Health Officer Ragan Orders Arrest of Four Venders of Objectionable Milk.

City Chemist H. D. Gibbs and City Bacteriologist F. G. Cheney presented a report upin the analyses of ninety-six samples of milk to the Health Board yesterday, and as a result warrants for the arrest of four restaurant keepers will be issued upon complaint of the Health Officer. The energies of the inspectors have been turned for several days toward the restaurant keepers, for it was suspected that even the milk as delivered by the dairymen was considered good enough for further adulteration by addition before being served at public tables. The results obtained in the laboratory fully justify the suspicion and many other restaurant and saloon keepers are liable to arrest if they continue the practice of watering milk.

The first restaurant keeper who was found serving a product poorer than the law allows was E. Martinez of 61 Larkin street. Samples taken at his place of business yielded but 13 per cent of fats. The milk originally came from the Standard Dairy and the responsibility for its shortage will have to be determined by the courts.

H. Meinhorg comes also under the ban of the department. He buys his bakery at 20 Hayes street, but where he serves his meals consisting only 1 per cent of milk to each customer.

A third warrant will be sworn out against E. Simon, a delicatessen merchant at 83 Hayes street. One sample taken from his place was good, but another labeled "Strated," was found to contain 2 per cent of fats. Simon is charged with not marking this mixture with the word strated label that he will be called to account.

Jack Kelly will be arrested for selling "strained" cream without a label. In a sample of cream and skimming milk from Meinhorg's "Skinny Hatcher" Dairy. About a week ago, however, Health Officer Ragan found that a two negro women carry yesterday morning, and which he took stock of himself and found that they had relieved him of $ and had taken every cent he had on his person, as well.

Lesley left the Orpheum at 11:30 p. m. and was walking along Eddy street when he was accosted by the two negresses, who asked him to accompany them to their home. He refused, and they then asked him to give them money for a drink. He refused to do this, and they then dragged him into a doorway and relieved him of his money.

LOST SATCHEL CAUSES ARREST OF TWO MEN.

Fred Wolf, employed by the Pacific Plaster, a poultry journal, and Roy Williams, who has been a doorkeeper at the poultry exhibit at the old ferry postoffice building, were arrested yesterday by Detective Egan and taken to the Harbor Police Station. Their names were placed on the detention book. Wolf and Williams are believed to know something about the disposition of a satchel left at the poultry show by Mrs. Frank Shuster, wife of the exhibitor, who missed her satchel and reported the case to the police. When the receptacle were a watch, a number of rings, and $19.50 in cash. Wolf and Williams were arrested at the exhibition hall on Thanksgiving night, but although the satchel was found, no charges was preferred against them, in the belief that they had been unjustly accused. Wolf, however, is said to have admitted having taken the satchel, but by saying that he was in need of financial support and amounting to more than the sum said to have been lost by Mrs. Frank.
