SAYS HE FAILED TO SUPPORT HER

Bertha Boggs Causes Arrest of Railroad Man at San Jose.

A romance which began with an advertisement published by a local matrimonial bureau will be aired in Judge Conlan's court to-morrow morning.

William Hayes, a railroad man of San Jose, is charged in a complaint issued from that court with abandonment and non-support by Bertha Boggs, who claims to be his wife, although he asserts that he is not married and that the whole affair is spite work.

Hayes, under the name of L. R. Boggs, was arrested last night at San Jose on a warrant and a photograph which accompanied it.

Hayes told the police that the woman did not give her real name in the complaint. He said he met her through a matrimonial agency, saw her several times in San Jose and exchanged photographs with her.
